Assistant Golf Professional Mark Budler Named Head Golf Professional at Muskogee Golf Club

After over 4 years of working as the Assistant Golf Professional Mark Budler has accepted the Head Professional position at Muskogee Golf Club in Muskogee Oklahoma.

“I wanted to thank all of the junior golfers and parents who have been a critical part in making the junior program at Duncan what it is today. Mike and the staff will continue to take the junior program to the next level and beyond. Finally I want to thank all of the members and owners for their friendship and support, my wife Shapauni and I are eternally grateful.

Rules Wizard.....Free Drop or Not?

During the 2014 Penn State Rutherford Intercollegiate, Rutgers University golfer Jon Renza expected to find his ball in a familiar lie in the fairway after a drive down the center of the 12th hole of Penn State's Blue Course. That is, until he spotted his ball as pictured above.

Hoping to be granted free relief from this unusual circumstance, Renza decided to play his original ball as it lay on the banana peel and played a second ball under Rule 3-3 with the banana peel removed. Perhaps the object would be considered an obstruction, which would permit Renza to take relief without penalty under Rule 24-1a.

Unfortunately for Renza, a fruit skin is a loose impediment – not an obstruction – according to Decision 23/4. While Rule 23-1 allows loose impediments to be removed without penalty, a player will incur a penalty of one stroke if in so doing the ball moves. Renza could not have moved the loose impediment without causing his ball to move and therefore his only penalty-free option was to play his ball as it lay. As a result, the Committee correctly ruled the score with the original ball, a bogey, to count for his score. With his other ball, the one he wished to count, he recorded a birdie.

DG&TC Golf Professionals Awarded The 2015 Youth Player Development Award

For the 2nd time in the last 3 years the Golf professionals at DG&TC again set the bar for Junior golf in the South Central PGA Section. Their work with the junior golf program was vital to receiving this award and Mike Hansen and Mark Budler wanted to thank the junior golfers and their parents for their support of our program.
